INLE LAKE

A timeless fisherman, rowing one-legged across the placid water at dawn. A floating vegetable garden, fertilized with decaying plant matter. The stilted wooden homes of waterfront villagers. A destination as lost in time as in the vast, unexplored realm of one of the world's most compelling destinations. This is Inle Lake.

Together with Bagan, and two of the Far East's most exotic cities at Yangon and Mandalay, Inle Lake beats at the heart of every traveler's dream of Myanmar. As the country's second largest lake, pooled at a lofty 800 meters above seal level, Inle is renowned for its waterborne life. Its stilted homes perch precariously above water levels that rise and fall with the seasons.

The lake's channels route splinter boats to some of Asia's most fascinating markets, to pagodas of distinctive grandeur, to a remarkable collection of 1,000 ruined stupas at Inthein Village that date back to the 13th Century, and to a very singular house in the middle of the lake where locals are breeding Siamese cats.

Local industry abounds, from shops rolling cigars, to boat yards, and handicraft garments. Few destinations in the world today preserve the fabric of life as life was lived decades ago. Inle Lake is one of those places.

A destination as removed from the wider world as Inle Lake demands a resort where detachment is a priority. Where simplicity is the essence of elegance. Where contemplation, not bustle, reigns supreme.

At the Sanctum Inle Resort, arches and cloisters reference the monastic life, opening the doors on a more contemplative experience of travel. With a design that celebrates the fundamentals, that merges the spiritual and the secular, the past and the present, East and West, the hotel is a gateway to one of the Asia's most fascinating locales.

Stay in one of three classes of rooms and suites; eat from menus that span Eurasia; and explore the wonders of Inle, and the quietude cultivated by one of Myanmar's most ambitious new hotels.

INSPIRED BY THE TRAVELER'S QUEST FOR CHANGE, THE ROOMS AT SANCTUM INLE RESORT CELEBRATE THE VIRTUES OF A MONASTIC LIFE. THOUGH THE DESIGN IS MINIMALIST, THE HOTEL HAS INTEGRATED ALL OF THE MODERN COMFORTS, FROM PLUSH BEDS AND AIR-CONDITIONING, TO CABLE TELEVISIONS AND MINIBARS IN EACH AND EVERY ROOM AND SUITE.

THE REFECTORY

The menu at The Refectory celebrates must-eat standards of the Shan culinary arts, from noodles and soups to fresh garden salads. The Refectory deepens its exploration of regional fare with mohinga, samosa and a delectable palate of curries from wider Myanmar.

BOAT JETTY & BOATS

Boats are the main means of passage around the lake. Vacationers have a tendency to explore on motorised boats but most locals travel around on traditional flat-bottomed boat thrust by a single wooden paddle. The unique technique of leg rowing where one leg is wrapped around the paddle to drive the blade through the water in a sea serpent movement is exceptional.

THE BUSINESS CENTER

The Chapter House dedicates workspace and Internet connections for those who can't quite detach, who need a live connection elsewhere, or who need time to bear down on work. Leisure travelers can browse an ever-growing library, and choose from a selection of board games.
